The sacred fire of Vesta was a sacred eternal flame in Ancient Rome. The Vestal Virgins , originally numbering two, later four and eventually six, were selected by lot and served for thirty years, tending the holy fire and performing other rituals connected to domestic life —among them were the ritual sweeping of the temple on June 15 and the preparation of food for certain festivals.

Rome's Sacred Flame continues this trend by inserting Vespasian right into the middle of some of the more interesting events of the Emperor Nero's reign. Through Vespasian's eyes we see some of Nero's infamous parties, one of the more significant plots against the Emperor's life, the brewing persecution of the Christians, and, most importantly, the Great Fire of Rome, during which, some sources indicate, the Emperor played the lyre as the city burned.
